Meeting Minutes

Hello All,

Today, March 16, the Psychology Club of Rocky Mountain College held the first informal meeting of the newly created Psych Club (RMCPC) under the advising of Dr. Ambrin F. Masood. Your president Camille Gonzales opened our session with revising our mission statement, "Our Club's purpose is multifaceted. We want to give the students additional opportunity to interact with the faculty, to ask questions and gain specific information related to their sub-field of interest, and enjoy the science of psychology. Our club’s goal is to be able to join Psi Chi in a year from now.”

All the Club Officers discussed their roles and responsibilities, we voted to allow all students to join instead of only the psychology majors and minors.

We also agreed on the location for all our meetings, Losekamp Hall 30. The officers discussed the ways to recruit members: talk to classes, give information about Psychology Club, and talk to them about our goal of joining Psi Chi.

After this was completed, club officers discussed the need to represent us. We assigned our Public Relations Officer, Sky Gabel, to draw a club logo to put on our first flyer, and we decided to add some psychology-related humor to our flyers. Sky Gabel will be making copies and posting the flyers around campus and will be contacting Teresa Rowen for posting the flyer on our reader board in the cafeteria.

We also discussed the need for having our own Club t-shirts. It will cost $12 and require a specific shirt size. We discussed what would go on the t-shirt and decided to put a Pavlovian joke on the back. The money to purchase the shirt can be given to our Treasurer, Macayla Birdwell, who will be keeping in touch with the advisor and our presidents.
The club officers decided on meeting in the Writing Center on Tuesday to finalize the logo for the club and the content of the flyer.
