

MAPSTON RECEIVES MASTER'S IN PUBLIC RELATIONS

For more information: Dan Burkhardt, Rocky Mountain College director of news & information, (406) 657-1104 / burkhardt@rocky.edu

BILLINGS – Austin Mapston, Rocky Mountain College assistant director of admissions, has earned his masters of science in public relations degree at Montana State University – Billings. Mapston plans on using the knowledge and experience gained through the coursework to further build upon and promote the mission and objectives at Rocky while continuing to gain valuable experience in the public relations and marketing field.

“I was able to complete my masters with the support, encouragement, and understanding of the College which allowed me to work on my masters completion while fulfilling my obligations at work,” Mapston said.

Mapston, who is from Denton, Mont., earned his bachelor of arts degree in communication studies and environmental science from Carroll College. He is currently working on a bachelor of science degree in business management at RMC.

#

8/30/2010