BILLINGS – The 40th anniversary of Earth Day will be observed with a week of activities on the campus of Rocky Mountain College, sponsored by the student Environmental Club and the campus Green Group, according to Bill Kehler, advisor to the RMC Environmental Club.

A recycling booth, organic vegan cookies, outdoor classes, a bike/bus/walk/carpool day, a bicycle tuning day, tree planting and campus wide clean up are all part of the week long activities.

“We are actively involved in recycling, composting, and other energy saving efforts throughout the year, but this is a time to further raise awareness,” Kehler said.

There will be showings of “An Inconvenient Truth,” “Blue Gold: World Water Wars,” “Who Killed the Electric Car,” and “Foodmatters: You Are What You Eat.”

Livingston author and scientist Eric Schneider will read from his most recent book, “The Purpose of Life: Closing the Gap Between Science and Religion,” Thursday, April 22, 2010, at 4 p.m. in Room 125 of Morledge – Kimball Hall, on the campus of Rocky Mountain College.

There will also be fun events serving root beer floats during the tree planting and a faculty/staff vs. student volleyball game.

The complete schedule of events for Monday, April 19 – Friday, April 23 is attached.
