FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

BILLINGS -- The Rocky Mountain College Students in Free Enterprise (SIFE) team has launched a new project called "Suit Up!" to help prepare students for internship and job interviews by providing them with advice on how to build a professional wardrobe and a free interview outfit.

The project is funded by Associated Students of Rocky Mountain College (ASRMC) and SIFE. With startup funds, the SIFE team is canvassing the local secondhand shops for appropriate clothing to start filling our inventory, but this is a limited beginning. SIFE is in need of any interview-appropriate clothing for men or women.

"We hope members of the Rocky family can help us keep the inventory full enough to help every student in need of assistance," said Karen Beiser. RMC assistant professor, business administration and economics, and faculty advisor to SIFE.

The Suit Up! store is located Room 003, in the lower level of Tyler Hall. SIFE will open doors for business as soon as they have sufficient inventory, Beiser said.

"Any student who has an interview for a professional job or internship can come to the store and receive an outfit in exchange for basic information. The SIFE team needs to track how the interview went and its results so we can see if the Suit Up! project made a difference to the student and the outcome," she explained.

People who have interview-appropriate clothes and accessories may contact Karen Beiser, RMC assistant professor, business administration and economics, (406) 657.1170 / karen.beiser@rocky.edu and/or SIFE members Chana Hodosh.
