

Dear Colleagues,

As anticipated, we have officially extended online/alternative delivery through the remainder of the term. We will have an announcement regarding commencement later this week.

Now that we have somewhat settled in, such as we can, I am hoping we might build out a schedule for keeping at least some virtual meetings through the end of the semester. I think we should try to move forward--again, such as we can--with the essential business of the College. I am hoping FXC can meet virtually next Monday and come up with some recommendations in this regard.

Thank you again for all of your hard work and understanding.

Stay safe and be well,

Steve
